Introductory Note

Following this page, Cisco has provided introductory materials.

This proposal, including any attachments, pricing, and technical information, includes certain Cisco confidential, trade secret, and proprietary information. Consistent with our substantive bid response [ref: RFP p 11], PUBLIC INFORMATION, we have marked our proposal “Cisco Confidential” and request that it not be disclosed to any third party without first notifying Cisco and affording Cisco the opportunity, as allowed by law, to seek judicial protection from disclosure of such confidential, trade secret, and proprietary information to a third party. This proposal is not to be used for other than your evaluation and consideration.

Some information contained in this proposal may reference future technology and pricing for technology under development. All such information and related pricing is subject to change. Also, any descriptions, documentation, or references to third-party products in this proposal are provided for informational purposes only and shall not be considered a part of Cisco’s proposal.
